GENTRY BROTHERS' SHOW.

Gentry Brothers' shows—that section of the canvas world that appeals especially to women and children—is scheduled for a two days' visit to Salt Lake. Already an army of bill posters has scattered lengths of pretty pictorial paper heralding the coming of aristocratic dogs and ponies.

Gentry Brothers' shows are now working east, having played several weeks in Oregon and Washington. At present they are in Idaho. Their trains will arrive Sunday morning. As quickly as possible the trains will be unloaded and the contents transferred to the lots at Eighth South and Main streets.

After the show is "housed" within its canvas coliseum, the ponies and dogs will be treated to a bath of warm water and castle soap. Monday morning in all their gala attire the animals will line up for parade. The procession will wind its way from the show lots to the downtown district.

The parade of Gentry Brothers' shows has all the features of the usual parade, and yet it has its own distinctive features. Among these are many chariots presenting the fables of Mother Goose. The actors in these tableaux are dogs and ponies of high degree. Gentry Brothers will give four performances in this city. The engagement will begin at 1:15 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the doors will open for the first performance. It will conclude with the show on Tuesday night. For the Salt Lake engagement only the prices of admission have been reduced to 25 cents and 35 cents.

FARNUM IN "CAMEO KIRBY."

Dustin Farnum, who has to his credit a long honor roll of personal hits, comes to the Salt Lake theatre tonight in a new vehicle called "Cameo Kirby," from the pens of the public authors and playwrights, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. This play will bring Mr. Farnum back to Salt Lake in a role which, according to all reports, offers him all the opportunities he could desire for the display of the sympathetic qualities of his art along lines other than the interpretation of cowboy roles. In the happy working out of the unexpected difficulties with which he is beset in upholding the "honor" of his craft, he will have many scenes of unusual brightness, as well as intense emotional moments, and it is fair to assume that an actor of Mr. Farnum's abilities fully avails himself of all the chances that are thus afforded him. Liebler & Co., who are directing the tour of this distinguished player, have surrounded him with a company of exceptional merit.

"GIRLS" COMING SURE.

"Girls" will open at the Grand theatre next Monday evening and will combine for four performances, including a matinee Wednesday. This was definitely decided yesterday although steps had been taken to cancel the engagement earlier in the week when it was learned that the plans for the independent circuit had gone awry.

Work of re-decorating the theatre is already well under way and a vast improvement in the appearance of the Grand will be noted next Monday, although the decorators may not be able to complete their work by that time.

Willard Mack and associate players will open a continuous season at the Grand, Sunday, Aug. 22, playing "Salome Jane." Instead of "The Girl of the Golden West" as was expected. The change is made necessary by the word received yesterday to the effect that Blanche Bates, now playing in repertoire, has obtained the exclusive western rights for "The Girl of the Golden West" for the season.

BUNGALOW THEATRE.

The company at the Bungalow has been drawing large and satisfied audiences during the past few days. The play is a more than usually strong one, the company well balanced, and the theater cool and comfortable. Miss Anna Cleveland, the leading woman, has made a real hit by her clever work. "The New Magdalen" will be the bill for the remainder of the week, the company closing on Saturday evening.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Two big audiences greeted "Corianton" at the Colonial yesterday, making a total of seventeen audiences which have seen this remarkable play in the last week and a half. The play is a masterpiece of dramatic art, with a Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday. The advance sale for the balance of the engagement indicates packed houses.

BIG DEAL MADE IN CITY REALTY

Sum of $81,000 Paid by N. W. Clayton for Commercial Street Property.

Nephi W. Clayton added to his real estate holdings yesterday by purchasing from Josiah Barnett, executor and trustee of the estate of Theodore Brubaker, the property adjoining that owned by the Clayton Investment company on Commercial street for $81,000.

The property purchased is about seventy-five feet south of the corner of Orpheum avenue and Commercial street and has a frontage of 150 feet. At the present time a three-story structure occupies the ground, and according to the plans of the new owner, this building will remain for some time.

Mr. Clayton stated last night that he had purchased the property for an investment purpose. "I believe that the odium which has been attached to Commercial street has been removed by the removal of the undesirable element," said he, "and the central location of this property is bound to make it a valuable asset as a business location in the near future."

The sale is subject to a five-year lease held by Edward P. O'Neill. Mr. O'Neill has been in business near this location for some time. It is said, and has leases on considerable of the property in that location.

SUPPLIES RETURNED.

Two carloads of tents, cots and bedding secured from the government for use at the fair, were shipped yesterday to San Francisco. Two more carloads of similar supplies will be shipped today. Every cot and every piece of bedding belonging to the government has been returned to the depot and will be shipped back to the government at San Francisco. The fact that there was no portion of the government supplies lost during the encampment is due to the careful work of three sergeants from the Fifteenth Infantry assigned to the duty of distribution and collection of supplies.

ETHEL LANE FUNERAL.

Miss Ethel Lane, daughter of Elizabeth Clawson Lane, who died at Holy Cross hospital on Tuesday afternoon from the effects of an operation, will be buried this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral will be held at 121 East South Temple street. Friends invited.

Los Angeles Excursion.

Last days of summer round trip, $40, to the glorious Pacific. Now at its best. Salt Lake Route.

STERRETT PLANS VACATION TRIP

Official Business of G. A. R. Will Soon Be Completed—Then He Will Go.

The official business of the G. A. R. encampment is coming to a close as rapidly as possible. The executive committee and the auditing committee are meeting daily, and it is expected that their work will soon be completed.

After that part of the work is concluded the remainder of the task consists in assembling and publishing the reports of the twenty-four sub-committees for the encampment. The last work of the encampment will have been completed by the last of next week, and the offices of the forty-third encampment will be permanently closed.

Colonel F. M. Sterrett of Toledo, under whose direction the encampment has been managed, will leave Salt Lake the latter part of next week for Seattle. After a few days at the fair he will take a vacation trip of two weeks to Honolulu. He will reach his home near Toledo about Sept. 15, and after a month at home, he will go to Atlantic City, where he will have charge of the next encampment as executive director.

HIGH SCHOOL CADET BAND AT SALT LAKE BEACH TODAY

The High School Cadet band has been putting in some strenuous practicing lately, getting ready for their trip to the Seattle fair, and it is due to them to say that they are in splendid shape. Their director and teacher, L. P. Christensen, says that he is real proud of the work the boys are doing, and believes they will acquire themselves admirably while away. That the people of Salt Lake may have a chance to hear the cadets in a concert before they leave they will give a program at Salt Lake this afternoon, beginning at 5 o'clock. The boys will be the guests of the resort management.

POLICE CASE AGAINST MORAN IS DISMISSED

The charge made against Pat Moran several weeks ago for dumping manure at 371 South Third West street was dismissed in Judge J. M. Bowman's court yesterday morning. The manure had been hauled away and the premises cleaned. Prosecutor E. A. Rogers moved that the case be dismissed.

INSURANCE FIRMS NOTIFIED

New Regulation of Last Legislature Becomes Effective at Beginning of Year.

George B. Squires, state insurance commissioner, yesterday sent a letter to every insurance company operating in Utah advising them that, under the provision of the Burton law, passed at the last session of the legislature, on and after Jan. 1, 1910, no policy of life insurance shall be issued by a life insurance company until the form of the same has been filed with the insurance commissioner.

With each letter a copy of the Utah insurance code was sent. The letters were sent out in order that the companies might be advised in ample time to make such changes in the form of the policies necessary to comply with the Utah laws.

TWO NEW BUNGALOWS PURCHASED WEDNESDAY

Two modern bungalows on the northeast bench were sold yesterday by the Salt Lake Security Trust company. Julius Kroemer became the owner of the one located on Tenth avenue, near E street, for $3,750. The other was sold to O. K. Pratt, of the city ticket office of the Oregon Short Line, for $1,500. Both deals were negotiated by the A. H. Birrell company.

INNES' BAND TO GIVE GOOD PROGRAMS AT SALT LAKE DURING ENGAGEMENT

Miss Virginia Listemann, prima donna with Innes' band.

Local music lovers and all who appreciate the best there is in music are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to the advent of Innes and his orchestral band on Friday at Salt Lake.

Innes is one of the great bandmasters of the world. His ideals are lofty and he reaches them with a felicity which disarms criticism. In the ponderous creations of Wagner and in the ecstasies of Liszt, Innes is in his element. The splendid instrumentalists who compose his band partake of his enthusiasm, and the result is a program of artistic excellence long to be remembered.

Innes is on his way back to New York from the Seattle fair, of which he is the musical director-in-chief, where he and his noted band have been playing since the opening on June 1. The Post-Intelligencer, in speaking of Innes' farewell concert there, said: "The remarkable sight of 20,000 people reverently standing up during the playing of Innes' Gloria Washington march last night, as though it were the national anthem, was a tribute seldom paid to a living musician, and is the best evidence of the wonderful grip which this magnificent body of players has secured in the affections of our people. The band is unquestionably one of the great bands of the world, and the announcement that it is to be heard here again before the final closing of the fair was received with a hurricane of enthusiasm."

During his engagement here several well known soloists will be heard, notable among them being Virginia Listemann, soprano; Dr. H. G. Williams, the Welsh harpist; Hazel, a cellist, and Kiburz, a celebrated flutist from Berlin.

The programs for the first two concerts, which occur tomorrow, are as follows:

Friday afternoon, 4 to 6 o'clock: Soloists—Virginia Listemann, soprano; George Hazel, cellist; John Kiburz, flute. Overture, "The Roman Carnival." Berlioz; (a) "The Glow Worm," Lincke; (b) "Siamese Patrol," Lincke; "Serenade for Kiburz," airs from the "Trumpeter of Seckingen," Nessler, ending with the famous "Farewell" song by A. Jefferson Smith; (c) "Whispering of the Flowers," Von Blom; (d) "Gloria Washington," two-step. Innes (the official march of the Seattle world's fair); "My Heart at Thy Voice," aria for soprano, Saint Saens, Virginia Listemann; "The Merry Widow" waltz, humoresque, Innes, showing this well known melody as written by its composer, Lehar, and as it might have been written by (a) Liszt, (b) Verdi, (c) in rag-time style, (d) Wagner.

Friday night, 8 to 10 o'clock: Soloists—Virginia Listemann, soprano; Dr. H. G. Williams, harp. "Fourteenth Hungarian Rhapsody," Liszt; (a) "Bird Song," Goldmark; (b) "Pirration," Stock; "The Water Fall," for harp solo, Cheshire, Williams; "Celebration of the Love Feast," from "Parsifal," Wagner; (c) "Mansions of the Gilets; (d) "Gloria Washington," two-step, Innes; "Una voce poco fa," aria for soprano, Rossini, Virginia Listemann; "Scene From Il Trovatore," Verdi, ending with the famous tower scene, by Messrs. Bambridge and Pinto.

THE EIGHT MADCAPS GO IN BATHING

The eight madcaps.

Those who were fortunate enough to be bathing out at Salt Lake yesterday morning got some unexpected fun which had not been provided by the management of that popular resort, and which was therefore the more enjoyable. The Eight Madcaps, who are doing an acrobatic dancing act at the Orpheum theatre this week, and who are all expert swimmers, had since their arrival been planning this excursion, but so secret had they kept the exact date when they were going that not even the Orpheum call boys, who generally know everybody's business but his own, had been able to fathom their secret. They had been previously forewarned that it would be necessary for them to keep their mouths closed owing to the salty taste of the water, and though they all succeeded in doing so this was the hardest thing they had to contend with. They all certainly lived up to their name, "The Madcaps," and some of the antics they went through and the capers they cut would put a porpoise to shame.
